FACTS ABOUT THE MEDIA LICENCE

The media licence was introduced in 1925. Back then you had to pay a licence when you had a radio.

The rules have been amended since then and now include both television and internet access.

On March 16th 2018 a political agreement was made to gradually phase out the licence payment. This process will last until the year 2022, at which point it will be financed through your taxes instead.

This means that the media licence remains mandatory until December 31st 2021 for any resident in Denmark with access to public service broadcasting.
